

Hello, I am writing to comment on how I would not like my internet usage to be easily wiretapped by the FBI.

It's a gross violation of my privacy for one, and it would stifle _all_ innovation in the field of networking if you had to get your new technology passed by the FCC for it to work. This would put outrageous regulations on the internet -a system which thrives on being so open and flexible.